- 1/4 cup grated soap (Castile soap is a common choice)
- 1/4 cup hot water
- 1/2 tsp olive oil
- 2 tablespoons glycerine
- 5 drops essential oil (optional, for fragrance or therapeutic properties)

Instructions:

1. Dissolve the soap in the hot water.
2. Stir in the olive oil. You can substitute another vegetable oil if you like, but olive oil is generally accepted as healthy for skin and hair.
3. Add the glycerine and any essential oils you might want. Typical essential oils would include lavender, peppermint, or citrus. You can use this shampoo as-is or as a base for specialized recipes for oily hair, dry hair, dandruff, etc. submitted recipe!!!

Herbs you can add to your natural Shampoo recipe

Rosemary may also be useful in the prevention and treatment of headlice, excellent for scalp problems like dandruff and itchiness.

Lavender Oil has a balancing, harmonizing effect on the emotions and also on the skin making it excellent for use in cosmetics and toiletries where it balances the production of sebum from the oil glands making it beneficial for dry or oily skins for psoriasis, acne, eczema, seborrhea and spots.

Chamomile is an excellent rinse for fine hair, especially during hot weather - just be sure to strain it well before using! It is also famed for lightening hair, which is why it is frequently used in shampoos for blonde hair.

Nettle Roots, Nettle Leaves, have a long history of use in traditional medicine. Its flesh is rich in minerals and plant hormones and it stimulates hair growth and softens the hair. It is used as a hair rinse (especially for light hair)
